

Books for Parents

Make Your Kid a Money Genius (Even If You're Not): a Parent's Guide for Kids 3 to 23 By: Beth Kobliner

Why read it? If personal finance is an overwhelming topic to you, I would start here. Lots of practical application and techniques broken down by ages groups (preschool, elementary, middle, high school, college, and young adult). Very easy to read. This is more of a topic/issue based approach.

Check it out on GoodReads

Find it at your local library

Raising Financially Fit Kids By: Joline Godfrey

Why read it? If you are comfortable with the topic of personal finance or desiring a structured plan, I would start here. It explains various kid's money styles and outlines the Ten Basic Money Skills. It provides a clear plan/path for Financial Apprenticeship and outlines some benchmarks for each age group.

Check it out on GoodReads

Find it at your local library

Opposite of Spoiled: Raising Kids Who Are Grounded, Generous and Smart About Money By: Ron Lieber

Why read it? Read this book only after you have read the other two. It explores rational and reasoning behind allowances, spending, giving, working. Does provide some examples, but not a clear plan. Would read this book after the other two group.

Check it out on GoodReads

Find it at your local library